The mystery connected with the milk in another executive cocoa-nut has pust been explained. One of Gen. Grant's newly-appointed United States Circuit Judges is Mr. William McKennan, of Pennsylvania, and the world wondered why he chould have been. But the world wonder now the company of the sylvania, and the world wonder now should have been. But the wonder now crases. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Washing ton, in that State, are the cousins of Mrs. ceases. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of washing ton, in that State, are the cousins of Mrs. Grant, and the Hon. Wilham McKennan is the lather of Mrs. Smith. The entire-Presidential family spent several very delightful days with the Smiths last summer.

Grant is going to take a fleet with him.

Last summer it was only the Tallapoosa; now it is to be a whole squadron. That is alone is sufficiently corrupting, and the property in the great Baric rest is easily told. Boundless extravagance, Last summer it was only the Tallapoosa, now it is to be a whole squadron. That is progress, indeed. Will the great Beric command? Will Robeson be of the party? Perhaps Sumner and Butter may be invited. who knows? And then it Heaven should them all safely to some "sweet little isle in a blue summer ocean, tar off and alone," some sequestered and undiscovered Juan Fernandez, and turn them all into Robinson Cruces, that would be nice. It would be heavenly.

The Pluladelphis Press mentions it is as a singular mark of the Jate Mr. Stanton's patriotism that he did not want his country—"the country he had done so much to save"—to put itself to the expense of burying him in good style. Mr. Stanton was not without virtues. He had, it would seem, as many as two—poverty and patriotism. The one was the resulted his disinclination to steal; the other he exhibited by his desire for a cheap funeral. These things are certainly not the fit subject for a jest, but they are so gravely paraded before the public by the Radical press that they force people to smile in spite of themselves.

It is now argued, and the argument carries great popular majoritles with it where experiment a third time, broken down and played out as he is, with the wire-edge of his ardro and enthusiams gene, with his self-confidence paralyzed, as it should be, it is and, by the experiment a third time, broken down and played out as he is, with the wire-edge of his ardro and enthusiams gene, with his self-confidence paralyzed, as it should be, it is and, by the experiment a third time, broken down and played out as he is, with the wire-edge of his ardro and enthusians gene, with his self-confidence paralyzed, as it should be, it is an an affirmatively, before an of his ardro and enthusians gene, with his supply of Cabinet material anticley exhausted—for he has long since to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case of the case, by way of segment to this view of the case of the part and with his supply of Cabinet material anticley exhausted—for he has long since to the shall attempt to reconstruct

Radical Revolution in England. The House of Lords is to England what the Old Man of the Sea was to Sinbad the Sailor. It is the mistortune of all move-ments of a reformatory kind that they stop when set in motion; and the needful measures for relieving England of many oppressions and distresses, which began about forty years ago, have widesed and descreed units out of the ordered chandeepened quite out of the original chan-nels of reform into a radicalism that is not very short of revolution. The destruction of the Peers is now openly advocated, and there is every reason to believe that it will be accomplished before the end of the cen-

ROUMD-ABOUT.

"The Tweith Might Reveiters,"
We have been requested to return the warmest thanks of the gentlem n and ladies invited by telegraph to attend the grand ball to be given in New Orleans-by the "Tweith Night Revellers" on the 6th inst. The courtesy comes from one of the mysterious and unknown members, and names the persons for whem invitations are waiting, several of the beauties of the "German" being among the ladies who are desired to knoner the "Revellers" with their presence. These thoughtful ladies who are desired to honor the "Revel-ters" with their presence. These thoughful attentions coming thus smack of the kindii-ness of feeling which has always existed be-tween the Falls and Crescent cities, and are but another proof of the bond between them. Wishing the "Tweifth Night Revellers" every possible enjoyment in the coming ball, we must regret that it will not be in our power to accept their polite invitation.

I bravely entered the kitchen, under priext of a king for some water. The young girl was there, conversing with an old woman, who was occupied incooking. "My motion-in-law." she said to me, introducin her. While talking with these two I glanced silly around to sind where the other women could be. "They must be shad up somewhere." I said to myself, "tick Mornon, doubtless, does not wish to shock us by a view of his complete shade is a successful with his father in business in claim to the shade of the shade
